(Saint Charles, Illinois)- According to Veterinary Pet Insurance, skin allergies is the second most common insurance claim among dogs is and the fifth most common among cats. The number one reason dog owners visit the vet is for ear infections which are often skin infections spread to the ears by constant scratching. After thousands of dollars and failed attempts of fighting her own dog's environmental allergies Founder of PetAirapy, LLC., Annette Uda is proud to introduce the only air filtration units of their kind to effectively treat pets with allergies, helping pets live happier, healthier lives.

While humans with allergies usually develop itchy, watery eyes, a runny nose and other symptoms, pets get symptoms that show up on their skin, making them miserable. When a dog or cat develops pet atopic dermatitis or pet allergy symptoms, they can lead to hot spots, bacterial skin infections and complications from the repeated use of medications such as steroids. Infections and other complications can spread when pets scratch an infected area causing further pain and suffering.

Although there are many prescription medications, shots, oral medications, and medicated shampoos available to relieve allergies, there is no guarantee that symptoms will be relieved indefinitely. In turn, this makes the cost of treatment for pet allergies sky high in the long run. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, studies show that air pollution inside homes is often two-to-five times higher than outdoor levels. Meaning keeping pets inside the home will not help pets who are suffering from allergies and instead make them worse.

PetAirapy, LLC makes air purification units that offer organic allergy relief for pets. PetAirapy systems work by helping to prevent a wide range of environmental allergens that lead to pet atopic dermatitis or other pet allergy symptoms. The PetAirapy portable unit is the only six-part filtration system on the market for use on pets with allergies and is a natural cost-effective way to end pets' suffering. This unique six-part filtration system not only provides clean purified air for pets, but also uses UV lights to kill other harmful micro-organisms that would otherwise continue circulating throughout the home causing allergies, skin disease and infection.

The PetAirapy PA-160 System is a revolutionary in-duct air purifying system that targets allergens by destroying microorganisms including bacteria, flu viruses, and mold that can further agitate symptoms or irritate the breathing of both pets and humans. PetAirapy also offers a portable air purification system. The PA-777 System is intended for those who live in an apartment or rent office or clinic space where installing the PA-160 System directly is impractical. It is great in any room where pets spend most of their time.
